

PayPal offers merchant account services (credit card processing) for businesses in addition to the common PayPal account many people have. PayPal is our credit card processor.

The US Government/DOD policy on the use of PayPal prohibits the creation of PayPal accounts using federal funds since the funds are thus deposited in PayPal accounts without the purchase of any goods or services. Thus there is a loss of accountability. However, that restriction is about PayPal accounts, not the use of PayPal by vendors for credit card processing. We are able to process your purchase card (credit card) without a need for you to establish a PayPal account. No account is needed or established for your organization by our use of PayPal merchant account services.

Your purchase card information is entered into a secure PayPal site just as though your card was swiped. It is processed and the receipt/statement you get is the result. Purchase card monthly statements will show your transaction with Management Technologies as "PayPal – MGMT TECH" in accordance with federal financial reporting laws.
